West Displays Solidarity Flood Control Verdict Made At Short Meeting

France In Favor Of Missile Bases

PARIS (AP)—Western defense ministers ended their conference yesterday with a strong display of solidarity, bolstered by a report that France has agreed in principle to the stationing of American-built missile bases and nuclear warheads on her soil.

A communique winding up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization ministers' three days of meetings said the conferees endorsed plans for a ground force in central Europe would be backed by a network of medium-range missile bases capable of hurling nuclear warheads into the Soviet Union.

The ministers also endorsed plans for coordinated research and production of new weapons and confirmed support of NATO strategy as outlined by Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe.

A senior official said Norstad advised the ministers of France's agreement in principle to the bases. A French Foreign Ministry spokesman said negotiations with the United States now are under way. If successfully concluded, these talks could lead to establishment of rocket-launching bases in France.

The ministry spokesman would give no details, however, of the status of the negotiations or of French terms for an agreement, and American officials would not comment.

Britain was the first to accept medium-range missile bases, and Norstad said other European nations in preliminary talks indicated they would accept them.

Norstad startled the defense ministers by refusing to name the other nations on the ground too much information on the secret sessions was leaking to the press. NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak supported the American general's complaint of news leaks.

The French decision could be withdrawn by a new French government that is due to replace Felix Gaillard's caretaker regime.

Norstad's strategy is to build up a shield to about 30 divisions—roughly double the present numbers—armed with both conventional arms and tactical atomic weapons.

This level would include West German divisions now in formation, two French divisions now on duty in Algeria, and the reorganization or filling out of units already stationed in the region. It would also give them greater firepower. They would face about 175 Soviet divisions.

Merger Plan Of Steel Firms Hit

NEW YORK (AP)—The government struck yesterday at the heart of a plan to merge two huge steel-making companies, Bethlehem and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

It produced figures designed to show that Bethlehem, in an effort to improve the appearance of the merger deal, had vastly overestimated the cost of building a new plant.

The government in an anti-trust suit is seeking to block the proposed three billion dollar merger, contending it would lessen competition in the steel industry.

Heavy Cost
Bethlehem says it would cost 750 million dollars to build a new plant in the Midwest to compete against U. S. Steel but that it can expand Youngstown plants for about 350 millions.

On a per ton basis, Bethlehem said the new plant would cost $300 a ton, but the expansion program about $135 a ton.

Yesterday's Death

George C. Folmer, 69, of Blooming Grove, died at the General Hospital of Monroe County yesterday morning.

Garment Strike Virtually Over

NEW YORK (AP)—The International Ladies Garment Workers Union announced yesterday that an eight-week strike against the Pennsylvania dress industry is, for all practical purposes, over.

In what he termed the official end of the strike, ILGWU President David Dubinsky said in a statement:

"Of the original group of jobbers and Pennsylvania Garment Manufacturers Assn. contractors, employing about 25,000 workers in Pennsylvania who were struck, only 15 contractors and five jobbers, with about 1,400 workers are still on strike."

Dubinsky added that the union will continue its pressure on these holdouts and predicted that they also will capitulate.

Daylight Saving Time To Become Effective April 27

By The Associated Press
DAYLIGHT Saving Time will go into effect April 27 in practically all Pennsylvania communities with most municipalities planning to return to Standard Time at the end of October.

However, a sizeable number, including such large cities as Erie, Johnstown and York, will not return to Standard Time at the end of September.

Reserve Board To Halt Slump

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board launched some new financial maneuverings yesterday to combat the recession, and a House group pushed a bill for outright relief grants for the unemployed.

The Federal Reserve dropped the discount rate charged member banks who borrow from reserve banks to 1 1/2 per cent at New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis and Minneapolis.

In a separate move, the Federal Reserve reduced the amount of reserves which banks in New York and Chicago must maintain against demand deposits.

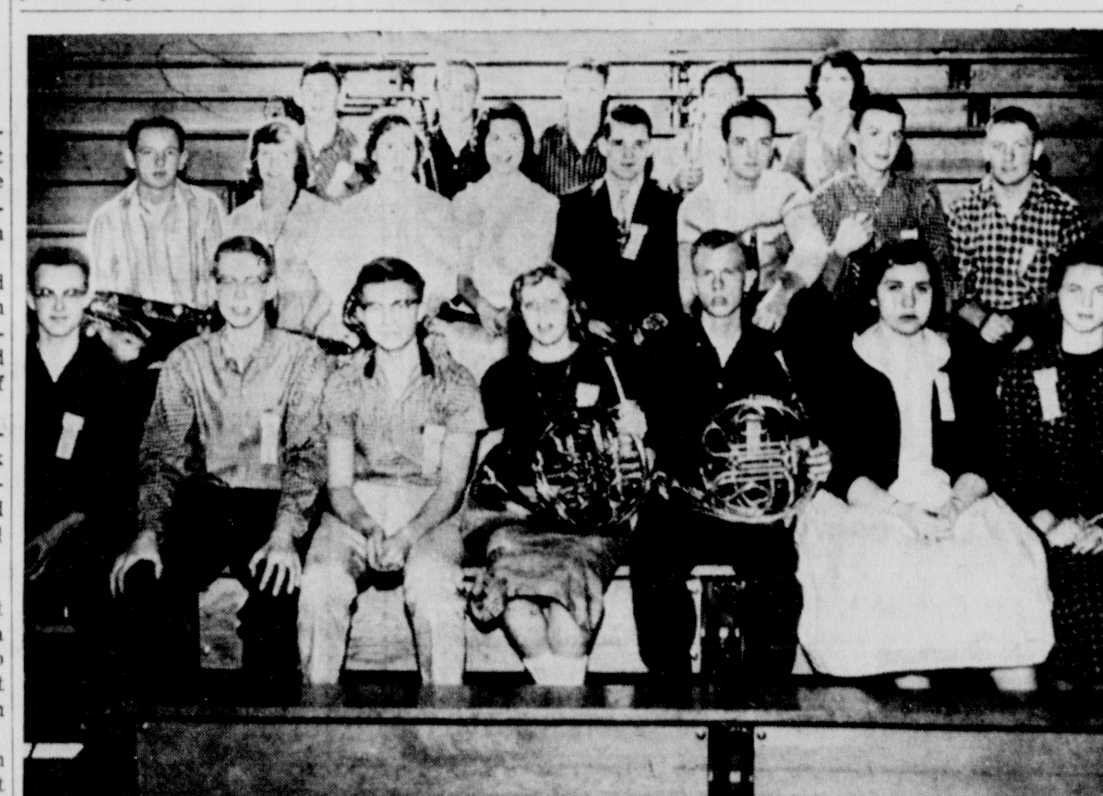

Major Action
In a major action at the Capitol, House Ways and Means Committee Democrats reached tentative agreement on a billion-dollar emergency plan for relief of unemployed workers. This would be financed wholly by the federal government.

The program, going beyond a plan advanced by President Eisenhower, will be put to a committee vote today.

Chairman Mills (D-Ark) said he expected it would be called up in the House next week.

The tentative compromise would provide 16 weeks additional unemployment compensation benefits to workers who have exhausted their benefits under present state programs.

The Democratic program also would provide the same 16 weeks of benefits to workers not covered by unemployment insurance, and who do not now qualify for any jobless pay.

Ike Declares Military Plan Critics Wrong

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the nation yesterday congressional critics are besieging his military reorganization plan with nonsense, untruth and misrepresentation.

The whole purpose of the plan, he said, is "safety with solvency" and "the country is entitled to both."

Launching the battle he has promised for his plan, Eisenhower addressed a luncheon of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the International Press Institute. The speech was broadcast nationally by television and radio.

Eisenhower repeatedly emphasized the negative. He said his defense reorganization program will create no monstrous, Prussian-type military command. That was a direct comeback at Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Armed Services Committee.

Eisenhower said, too, the plan will create no czar to "overwhelm our liberty," no threat to Congress' purse string power, "no 40-billion-dollar blank check," "no swallowing up of the traditional services."

On the positive side, the chief executive said the program will stop unworthy and costly bickering among the services and establish unified combat command and strategic planning.

Idea Attacked
To cling to the idea of waging war by separate ground, sea and air forces, the former general said, would put the country in deadly peril.

"I am quite sure," Eisenhower went on, "that the American people feel it is far more important to be able to hit the target than it is to haggle over who makes a weapon or who pulls a trigger."

He urged Congress to accept and apply the facts of modern military life, to sweep away the legal fog he said envelops the authority of the secretary of defense.

The hard-hitting counterattack apparently was aimed in spots not only at disapproving members of Congress but also at some military men who are showing signs of dissent.

One by one, the chief executive reviewed and upheld the major points of the reorganization program he sent to Congress Wednesday. It would expand greatly the authority of the defense secretary and strengthen the hand of the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Later, he plans to ask Congress to give the secretary greater flexibility in defense spending.

Children Find Parent's Bodies

CORNING, N. Y. (AP)—The bodies of a husband and wife, their throats slashed by kitchen knives, were found by their two children yesterday in their home here.

The couple were Arthur Rising, 37, and Pauline, 36. Police said it apparently was a case of murder and suicide.

Agreement At CBS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Representatives of the Columbia Broadcasting System and a striking technicians' union reached an understanding yesterday that will be submitted to the 1,300 strikers.

Snyder then said that "on April 22, Council, after much deliberation decided that, with certain offsets, it could go along with the project." He said a letter to that effect was sent to the State. He read the letter.

"Through all the publicity during recent days, it seems to look like I wrote the letter on my own," Snyder said. "I only followed Council's orders. The newspaper seems to forget the Council sets the policy and the Manager only carries them out."

At this point, Lawson interjected a comment that he would "verify" that Snyder had only followed Council's wishes in the matter.

Councilman William Schroeder interrupted to say: "I made the motion to send the necessary letter. That's what I said."

Snyder countered with: "The letter was received by the Borough solicitor (George T. Robinson) and the president of Council (Lawson), before it was sent." The letter was sent on April 9.

By Leonard Randolph
STROUDSBURG Council last night agreed to sponsor the Brodheads-McMichaels flood protection project. Council took its action—with no strong attached—at a short, subdued session. It lasted a scant half-hour.

Motion to sponsor flood control for Stroudsburg's main streams at their point of juncture was made by J. A. Groner.

Groner's voiced motion was only:

"I move that the Borough of Stroudsburg agree to be a sponsor of the flood control project and assume its responsibilities..."

Council approved the move unanimously. Borough Manager Harold Snyder was ordered to forward a letter to Dr. Maurice Goddard, secretary of Forests and Waters, to that effect.

Thorough Review
Most of last night's meeting was devoted to a thorough review of correspondence between the Department of Forests and Waters and the Borough.

But a sizeable section of the comments, toward the end, were turned over to criticism of news accounts of the whole flood control story.

Council President Edward Lawson said that there has been "much distortion" of the facts in the stories carried by The Daily Record. Borough Engineer Edward Hess made this criticism first. Councilman Groner also complained of "distortion" in news accounts.

None of the Council members went into detail as to what has been "distorted." Groner said, however, that he wanted to see a "prepared statement drawn up for the newspaper explaining our (Council's) position."

Lawson said: "I think it's high time."

Last night's meeting began with Snyder reading the correspondence. The first letter read was the initial one from Goddard, dated June 21, 1957 in which the Borough was asked to become a sponsor for the project so that final plans could be drawn.

The second was from C. H. McConnell of the Department's flood control bureau. This is the letter which was dated Sept. 27, 1957 and contained rough estimates of the approximate costs involved in local participation at the request of both boroughs.

"After this letter was received, both boroughs ordered Mr. Hess to contact local utilities to see what could be done to bring down local costs," Snyder said.

Resolution
Snyder then read a copy of a resolution approving sponsorship passed by County Commissioners in December. The resolution contained no reference to a specific amount of money. Commissioners agreed to share in costs on a one-third of local costs basis.

The next letter was a Feb. 19 communique from Dr. Goddard in which the Secretary pointed out that "we (the Department) are already assuming approximately $180,000 of costs usually assigned to local sponsors." This letter was in reply to an effort by Stroudsburg to increase the amount the Department would remove from local costs.

Snyder then said that "on April 22, Council, after much deliberation decided that, with certain offsets, it could go along with the project." He said a letter to that effect was sent to the State. He read the letter.

"Through all the publicity during recent days, it seems to look like I wrote the letter on my own," Snyder said. "I only followed Council's orders. The newspaper seems to forget the Council sets the policy and the Manager only carries them out."

At this point, Lawson interjected a comment that he would "verify" that Snyder had only followed Council's wishes in the matter.

Councilman William Schroeder interrupted to say: "I made the motion to send the necessary letter. That's what I said."

Snyder countered with: "The letter was received by the Borough solicitor (George T. Robinson) and the president of Council (Lawson), before it was sent." The letter was sent on April 9.

Development
Major Issue
BETHLEHEM (AP)—A $3,500,000 federal urban redevelopment program for Pennsylvania over a 10-year period was advocated yesterday by Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh as he swept through the Lehigh Valley in his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

"Cities like Bethlehem, Allentown, Harrisburg, and many others now have more than 40 redevelopment projects in being as part of the ceaseless efforts to wipe out blight and slums and to rescue our urban areas," Lawrence said.

Indonesian Troops Move Into Padang

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Thousands of Indonesian government infantrymen and Marine commandos moved into the rebel capital of Padang in Central Sumatra yesterday after a massive amphibious landing on the beaches north of the city.

They moved to link up with paratroopers and special combat forces who earlier in the day seized the Padang airport with hardly a fight.

The joint naval, land and air operations appeared to be near accomplishing the objective of smashing a two-month-old rebellion by young army colonels against the Sumatra government.

Daybreak
The long-predicted government offensive opened at daybreak.

A destroyer and two corvettes shelled the beaches. Then two companies of Marine commandos swept ashore from transports. Parachute troops plummeted simultaneously onto the airport four miles north of Padang.

Reinforcements were ordered in on reports of light resistance on the beachhead.

The rebel defense line was thin, stretched along 100 miles of coast north and south of Padang, the last major rebel stronghold on Sumatra.

Seizure of the airport was speedy.

Jobless Benefits Up

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—New Jersey's Senate and Assembly yesterday passed rival bills increasing unemployment compensation benefits.

The Assembly passed a Democratic measure which would increase benefits to about $43 a week for 39 weeks. The present maximum is $35 a week for 26 weeks.

An hour and a half earlier the Senate passed a Republican bill which would increase the benefit period to 34 2-3 weeks, without raising the payment level.

Both bills are emergency measures designed to expire at the end of next January.

Highways Department Orders Changes In Three Seed Zones In Mount Pocono Area

By Don Carlson
THE STATE Department of Highways will order three changes in restricted speed zones in Mount Pocono, it was reported yesterday.

The changes, according to officials of the Department, are the only ones to affect Monroe County. The report stated that the changes are the result of a statewide survey of such zones begun last Summer at the request of Governor George M.

Vacation Bureau Acts On Ads

By Don Allen
SEVERAL metropolitan newspapers will be asked to stop accepting advertising from self-styled Pocono Mountain travel agencies as a result of action taken last night by directors of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

Upon recommendation of its advertising committee, the bureau will request the papers to stop accepting what Thomas Robinson, a committee member, described as "misleading and unethical" advertising.

Robinson said the agencies use the word Poconos prominently in headlines and copy and that inquirers receive information on only about three area resorts.

He charged that at least one of the agencies is backed by a resort which has a financial interest in it and suggested that the others are paying excessive commissions to the agencies to push clients their way.

The directors voted to assess members of the bureau a minimum of 50 cents for each person the resort is capable of accommodating to pay for legal fees incurred during the recent minimum wage and hour ruling battle in Harrisburg.

Contributions
Larger resorts will be asked to contribute $1 for each person they are capable of accommodating.

A check for $14,725.50 was presented by representatives of the Eastern Poconos Assn. who unanimously approved the proposed 50 cents a head minimum at a recent meeting.

J. Horace Strunk, executive secretary, reported that the 1958 budget calls for expenditures of $43,721 with estimated receipts of $47,123.

The board approved recommendations of its advertising committee that the bureau spend $300 for two insertions in the New York Journal-American and $500 to hire an assistant.

Soil Bill Draws Protests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.) protested in the Senate yesterday against what is called a policy of letting things ride at a time of national recession.

His remarks, in turn, drew a protest from Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) against any suggestion that President Eisenhower is sitting matters out.

The debate between the Democratic and Republican leaders in the Senate was pinned directly to Eisenhower's vetoes of a bill to freeze farm price supports and a measure that would have authorized a vast array of rivers and harbors projects.

Both measures were supported by Democrats as recession-combatting steps.

Leaders
The three changes are zones warranted for restricted speed, but requiring changes to conform to Department standards, officials said.

None of the zones, they continued, are to be removed either because they were illegal and unwarranted or because they were legal zones no longer warranted.

Mount Pocono Borough officials last night reported that at that time they had not received any communication regarding the zones to be changed. Highway Department officials reported that the officials of all respective communities and cities to be effected will be notified.

Governor Leader said in asking for the survey that many restricted speed zones are not realistic and are almost completely ignored.

Speaker Feels 'Population Fuse Short'

BUCK HILL FALLS—Warning that the fuse on the population bomb in under-developed world areas is getting short, an internal affairs expert urged yesterday that the churches provide some backbone for government leaders "who shilly-shally while it burns."

Addressing the 10th anniversary meeting here of the U.S. Conference for World Council of Churches, Rev. Richard M. Fagley declared, "A population explosion with disastrous consequences is in the making in Asia and other underprivileged areas."

Dr. Fagley is the executive secretary of the Commission of the Churches on Internal Affairs, a joint agency of the World Council and the International Missionary Council.

Because this "explosion" raises the controversial issue of birth control, government spokesmen and administrators have almost wholly ignored this crucial economic situation of these countries, he said.

He based his statements on revised forecasts soon to be published by the United Nations. These show that if the birth rate does not decline after 1975 — world population now about three billion people will be close to seven billion by the year 2000 — only 42 years away.

Some 65 per cent of this increase will occur in the more developed countries, he said, but in vast underdeveloped countries, the increase will be 168 per cent.

"I know of no U.S. technical assistance project in the field of voluntary family limitation," Dr. Fagley declared, "and of only two minor undertakings by the United Nations and specialized agencies."

Sharing technical tools and skills to help less privileged countries meet their most urgent needs is necessary, he said, but it does not face fundamental facts that there eventually will not be enough food in the world to feed them.

Through continued medical progress and rapid expansion of public health measures the ancient balance between high birth rates and death rates has been upset, he said.

In the face of this situation, Dr. Fagley deplored the position made rigid in 1930 in the Casti Connubi Papal Encyclical which calls birth control "a sin against nature . . . and intrinsically vicious."

"While recognizing the sincerity with which this position is held," he said, "and the fact that it will never change, there is no alternative but to challenge it as a theological wrong and practically tragic."

Exhibition To Be Held At YMCA

THE ANNUAL exhibition of Gymnastics and Swimming is being held at the Monroe County YMCA, Saturday, at 4 p.m.

Cadet and Junior boys and girls will demonstrate skills they have learned through the past season.

The gym program will include calisthenics (Swedish and Danish) trampoline, rope climbing, ring work, tumbling, pyramids, basketball fundamentals and drills and baton twirling.

In the pool there will be demonstrations of the YMCA testing program from beginners' test through life-saving. Diving skills will be shown and as a climax, some water ballet featuring:

Sandra Bell, Tricia Evert, Kathy Kintz, Linda Pine, Eva Sarley, Sue Thurston, and Charlotte Wakefield will be in the events. An admission fee of 25 cents will be shown. Money will be used to purchase equipment.

Housing Officials Receive 189 Applications

HOUSING officials have received 178 applications — but they have only 100 homes. This was a key revelation from a report given to County Commissioners yesterday by Rev. Roger C. Stinson, head of Federal housing projects in this area.

Stinson told Commissioners: "We have processed about 31 so far and we have 30 more ready to approve this next week."

"We'll have the developments in Stroud Township and Stroudsburg ready for occupancy by the end of this month. The East Stroudsburg project will not be ready until the first of June."

"We have already started taking families into the two projects in Stroud Township and Stroudsburg. Some of them are already."

Stinson's report was the first one he had made to the present board of Commissioners on procedural matters involving occupancy of houses.

It was requested by Commissioners after they had received pleas from prospective housing renters for financial aid. Two men had complained that they lacked sufficient funds to pay the meter deposits required by gas and electric companies.

This matter was cleared up by Stinson who explained that the Authority has no power, at present, to accept payment for utilities from those who are renting. This is because each of the houses has its own individual meter.

"We're trying to get this thing ironed out with the gas company and the other utility so that we can purchase service on a wholesale basis. This would give us a cushion. And it would put all the houses on one master meter and allow us to take utility payments as part of the rental cost," Stinson said.

Persons who have been in good standing with the utility companies and users of their service in the past do not have to pay meter deposits, Stinson said.

The Citizens Gas Co. meter charge is $25 (cut in half from the normal $50) and Metropolitan Edison requires a deposit of $10, he said as does the Authority for "security to the house." This would mean an initial deposit of $45 providing the renter has no favorable credit record with the companies or other utilities he has used in the past.

Combined with the minimum rental — $14 per month — this would mean that if a family without credit reference on company books were to move into a housing project, it would need at least $59 to do so.

Other major items in the chairman's report:

Some families have been "jumping the gun" on the Authority and moving into the projects before houses have been "accepted" from the contractor. This means that the family would be using power or gas from meters still assigned to the contractor.

Houses in the projects are divided into "number of bedrooms" classes — one-bedroom, two-bedroom etc. up through five-bedroom homes. The Authority has only two five-bedroom homes in East Stroudsburg, Stinson said, but there has been little demand for them.

The allocation of home-sizes was made by a government economist and is based on a survey of the County, he said.

Families are not allowed to put more than two persons in a bedroom. Anything over this is considered "overcrowding" under Federal standards, he said.

A person who qualifies for rental of a housing unit must have come from sub-standard housing, be a veteran, an elderly person or "someone who has to move into a ground floor home due to poor health."

Lease agreements signed by those who enter the project "allow for immediate eviction for non-payment of rent." The rent must be paid by the fifth of the month or renter is given a notice to get out by the end of the month.

(In response to questions from Commissioners at this point, Stinson said: "When he (the man renting) signs the lease, he waives all legal rights and allows himself to be evicted. We don't intend to take in all the tramps that come along. I have a responsibility to the Federal government and to the bondholders in the project to bring it up to minimum standards. There'll be a bad apple who'll get in there now and then, but we're going to pick very carefully.")

Commission chairman John Lesone thanked Stinson for his report and commented:

"I think there is going to have to be a closer working relationship between the Authority and this board. This is a good forward step."

Stinson replied:

"I think I should remind you gentlemen that we are the servants of the county and that we have been appointed by the Commissioners. Our job is to work with you and for the people of the County."

Dellaria Member Of Shortway

PAUL J. DELLARIA was elected by Central Labor Union Social Club last night to serve as its representative on the Monroe County Chapter of the Keystone Shortway Assn.

The CLU Club voted to subscribe for a "full voting membership" for its delegate in the chapter. This gives Dellaria power to act in matters of chapter policy as a voting member.

Dellaria was nominated by Thomas Sexton and elected unanimously by vote of the membership of the Social Club.

Spokesmen He and Stuart Pipher, president of Central Labor Union of Monroe and Pike counties, will therefore serve as labor's main spokesmen on the Shortway Association chapter board.

Pipher was named by the CLU at a meeting held on Monday night to serve as its official delegate to the chapter.

Both Dellaria and Pipher have been active in community and civic affairs. Dellaria has been a prominent official in Community Chest and other local welfare drives for several years.

The two men have also worked together on the Central Labor Union's major project to bring about a vote of the electorate on unification of the two boroughs of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg.

Objection
Snyder then raised an objection to item two in the list of things the Department asks the Borough to agree to among its assurances of sponsorship. The item reads: "Agree to hold and save the Commonwealth, the Department and/or their contractors and agents harmless from any damages due to the construction of the project."

The Manager said he did not feel it was fair to ask the Borough to accept responsibility for

"That definitely says we will be a co-sponsor."

At this point Snyder charged that Dr. Goddard had "apparently sent a copy of his letter to the newspaper (The Record) before we got it."

Snyder then completed his

Hess asked to say a few words. He then explained that several conferences had been held with the utility companies and went on to charge that "facts have been so distorted in the news analysis that any outsider wouldn't know what has been going on."

"The only interest the Borough of Stroudsburg has had is to try to keep the cost to the taxpayers down and the reason we've been delaying is to try to get these costs down," Hess said.

Let's Attack Causes

Innumerable tears have been shed lately because the automobile industry is experiencing a major slump. The tears are based on sad facts, too, because sales of new cars have fallen off sharply and employment has declined in direct proportion.

Recent news stories tell of an upturn in both sales and employment as the Spring buying season gets under way. Even so, the industry faces rough going and, along with it, so do allied industries such as steel.

Part of the blame for the selling slump is due to general business conditions; not a little of it can be traced to competition from foreign-made cars.

What is the remedy? Walter Reuther, auto union chief, says that if the manufacturers will increase wages and lower their car prices, everything will turn out all right. Some of the large companies are demanding wage freezes and elimination of a fringe benefit here and there.

It seems obvious that if both wages and prices continue to rise, the industry's troubles will deepen instead of lessen. The same can be said of any other industry which finds its products going begging in the world's markets.

Negotiations for both labor and management would do well to heed the advice sounded yesterday by Roger M. Blough, chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., in a speech in Cleveland.

He said that American workmen are pricing themselves out of the market in the face of rising competition from foreign countries. Tariffs and other such expedients, he warned, provide no permanent solution.

Reds Test 900 IRBMs

Washington — Russia is testing long-range ballistic missiles, capable of carrying catastrophic nuclear warheads, at a rate 20 times greater than the U. S. This sinister score to date is: U. S. Appx 40 intermediate range ballistic missiles have been tested. These trials include the Air Force's Thor and the Army's Jupiter, one version of which, Jupiter-C, orbited the first U. S. satellite in outer space—Explorer I. No complete intercontinental ballistic missile has yet been fired. There have been seven tests of various stages of the Air Force's Atlas; no "shots" of any kind of the Titan. Of the seven Atlas tests, four were successful, three failures. Furthest distance covered was 400 miles. More than 900 IRBMs tested at ranges of 600 to 1,500 miles.

Eight complete ICBMs fired at distances of 4,000 to 6,000 miles. Source of these grim statistics is Defense Secretary Neil McElroy. He disclosed them, in response to sharp questioning, at a private meeting of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee. "Isn't it a fact," demanded Senator Stuart Symington (D., Mo.), "that development of a missile is directly related to the number of times it is tested; that a missile can be perfected only by extensive test firings?"

"That is correct," replied McElroy. "The number of firings has a great deal to do with the progress of a missile."

On Broadway —by Walter Winchell

The Drame of Lana Turner. She is made of blue-eyed sunshine, taffy tresses and swaying charms. She is Lana Turner, a movie goddess. Suddenly, the shimmer vanishes and darkness comes. All the lurking cruelties appear. She is lashed by ugly headlines, pilloried by editorialists and threatened with losing custody of her child. Of course, outraged propriety has the loudest voice. And no tragedy is more poignant than the misfortune of youth — when its radiance is smudged. Equally melancholy, however, is the helpless anguish of parents. It is easy to censure or acquire implacable attitudes toward those imprisoned by the fates. It seems sadistic to subject Lana to additional torment. No punitive measures devised can injure her as much as the burning memory of the nightmarish incident. And she is condemned to live with that memory for the rest of her days.

For Lana to be publicly scorned as a woman lacking in motherly virtues is ironic indeed. The fact is that her devotion to her daughter has been the one constant quality in a turbulent existence. Not so long ago, Cosmopolitan magazine reported: "Lana takes her responsibilities as a mother very seriously, goes to school recitals to hear her daughter play the piano, and has been known to haul Cheryl and her Girl Scout troop in a station wagon, delivering each little girl to her home after the trip. The ladies of the P.T.A. however, were turned down cold when they requested the loan of her home for a benefit. Lana guards the private life of her brood with desperate ferocity."

Despite romantic disappointments, Lana had always been a bubbling personality. Flip and frank, she reigned as one of the few film queens who accepted splendor and adulation without losing her sense of perspective. She had a refreshing irreverent attitude toward the glamour business. A business which consists of building dream images for the multitudes. She once observed: "I'm a girl who wears flannel nightgowns and keeps a hot water bottle in bed."

One who sought to guard her private life so desperately now finds every intimate detail flaunted in the public prints. Life can be capricious and untamed. However, there are certain facts about her private life which have not attracted headlines. And these facts should be weighed before public opinion renders its judgment. Justice consists in recognizing the rights of others. Decency consists of understanding others. Lana Turner's friends are aware of her courage. Despite the Rh factor in her blood, Lana sought to have children after the birth of Cheryl. Although doctors warned that another child might mean death for her, Lana tried three times to give her daughter the brothers or sisters she thought she needed. Unfortunately, the attempts ended with miscarriages.

Unfortunately, the attempts ended with miscarriages.

Sometimes it seems as if there is a fateful conspiracy in the development of an individual destiny. The story of Lana and her daughter has been a saga of heartbreak from the beginning. For three months before she gave birth to Cheryl, Lana was totally blind as a consequence of the pregnancy. Cheryl entered the world as a sickly infant. During the first nine days of her life she was shadowed by death. The frail body required blood transfusions. It was many months before doctors were certain the baby would live.

Bible Thought

Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid. John 14:27.

It is God's world and he is mindful of his own. You too are in God's thought.

"Raising the standard of living for everyone in this country, by producing more of the goods which everyone needs and wants, is one thing," Mr. Blough said.

"But raising the cost of producing those goods, so that the producer and his employees are placed at a competitive disadvantage, is quite another thing."

"And when those who profess to speak in the interests of the American working man advocate raising wage costs as a means of increasing consumer purchasing power, they are seeking to perpetrate what is the most dangerous hoax of our times."

"They know that higher wage costs can only be met by higher prices, so that in the end no increase in purchasing power results. Meanwhile, the ability of the American workman to compete with their industrious counterparts abroad is further diminished, thus shrinking the market for American products and diminishing the number of available American jobs."

What Mr. Blough says is obviously true. It seems to us he is touching on one of the major causes of our business slump. The inflation which price and wage hikes inspire can only help our foreign competitors at the expense of American capital and labor.

If we are to bring real peacetime prosperity back to our economy, we must direct our chief attack on the causes of the present slump.

To attack the symptoms by pouring billions of dollars of government money into the economy will not eliminate the basic problems any more than an aspirin will cure the cause of a headache. It will only deaden the pain.

The Pennsylvania Story

If Split Ticket, What?

Harrisburg — One of the more curious aspects of the current campaign which has Capitol Hill buffs in a quandary is the spectre of either party emerging with split tickets in the May 20 primary.

On the Democratic side a "point of no return" seems to have been reached already.

Republican factional candidates are approaching that point but by and large are not considered to have quite stepped over the brink as yet.

In the Democratic camp acrimonious charges and verbal blisterings have become run of the mill strategy for the independent ticket headed by U. S. Senator hopeful Clarence P. Bowers, one time Leader Administration appointee, and gubernatorial aspirant Roy E. Furman, Pennsylvania's present lieutenant governor.

The Bowers-Furman boomings against the Democratic "organization" backed ticket headed by Governor Leader seeking the senatorial nod and Pittsburgh Mayor David L. Lawrence, scouting for the gubernatorial post, already have virtually run the gamut.

Practically ignored. Significantly the Leader-Lawrence combine has uttered barely a word against the independent slate. In fact, insofar as the organization bigwigs are concerned, the Bowers-Furman band of independents doesn't even exist.

Full text of the day to day Bowers-Furman bombardments does not reach the public prints — just the "high points" — it is far too voluminous and too often is merely an allegation not backed up by any specific set of facts.

Example: In lambasting the Leader Administration's highway program (much more spiritedly than Republicans) Mr. Furman stated the other day:

"As we stand today, the Leader Administration is so far behind with its plans to take advantage of federal funds we may miss out entirely this year on $240,000,000 the United States government has placed at our disposal to build new and modern highways."

Possibly so — but no facts were offered to back it up.

Such highly critical barbs as this against theoretical "fellow Democrats", plus the bevy of personal peltings offered by the independents, have raised the serious question around Capitol Hill as to how a split ticket in November could work out should either Mr. Bowers or Mr. Furman gain individual victories and be forced to tie in with the remainder of the organization ticket.

To many, the point of no return already has been reached.

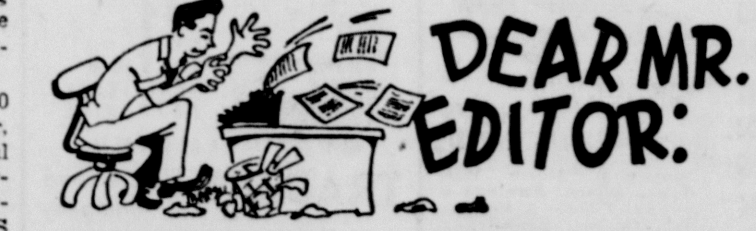

On the Republican side the condition does not seem to be quite so serious. There are two reasons for this.

(1) None of the tickets have broken into a blood and thunder pace of scathing denunciations achieved by their Democratic counterparts. There have been personal snips and snoots but these largely have withered on the vine.

(2) For the most part, whatever bombardment has been turned loose by Republicans has stemmed in the main not from the candidates themselves — but from secondary elements such as campaign managers and the like or candidates for secondary posts.

While there has been "cool bristling" among Republicans it has not reached the virtual point of no return seemingly achieved by Democrats.

Only a homestretch month remains for a final shaping up. The shakedown cruise for both parties is over.

Opened Road To Tower

Scotrun, Pa. The Editor, The Daily Record, Dear Sir:

The road to Big Pocono Fire Tower from Wilkie's road to the Coolmore property was opened by me as this was all I was concerned with. As this is the last dwelling on the road it was not necessary to open it on further. The Highway Department sent its big grader and three men up to open the road on to the tower three different times and failed to finish opening the road, which was too much for them, I guess. I would have opened the road clear to the tower with my little old Jeep had they approached me and offered me half of what it cost them so far and the road is still unopened by the Highway Department.

George Sokolsky Says...

It's The Child Which Counts

In all the unfortunate discussion of the Lana Turner case, including the intervention of the character, Mickey Cohen, sight must not be lost that the central character is the child.

Cheryl Crane, the little girl of too many fathers, from what appears in this picture, is a sad girl, who could have had everything but really had nothing and who became suddenly mature because she witnessed a procession of lovers and husbands and learned too much about life before she could possibly understand what she was learning.

This is not a private question. It is the social problem of the United States. Possibly when this child stabbed and killed Mickey Cohen's henchman, her mother's lover, she reminded the nation that our social institutions are based on monogamy and that polygamy and polyandry are intolerable in our civilization, no matter how generally practiced.

They are intolerable because they disrupt the lives of children; they break up the home which means that children are made insecure. Among the poor, this system produces gangs; among the rich and in the middle class, they lead to hatred for parents, to confusion, even to subversion.

Therefore, it is necessary not to think of the gigolet whom Lana Turner tooted around the world and from whom she accepted caresses and abuse. Nor need we think of Lana Turner who has satisfied whim and fancy without regard to her moral and social responsibilities.

What is important is the little girl, the representative of the next generation who stands before the court, a child who killed what looked like a great big man. John, she called him. He was her mother's boy friend.

The child was the daughter of the second marriage, and there were two more to follow, and then there was this bodyguard of Mickey Cohen's, who introduced himself over the telephone and became, uninvited, the master of the household. And the mother becomes scared of him.

What a scene for bringing up a normal healthy child! So the little girl listens outside the door, while mother and the hood quarrel and he threatens to cut up her face. We do not need to know why. We only need to know that a child has been listening at the door to all the filth that must have been part of such a conversation. We now know from the ghoulish letters, what kind of people these were.

Then it is over. The child seized a knife to prevent the hoodlum from cutting up her mother's face. How many children in such miserable environments would like to do just that? How many of them will wonder when they grow older what has happened to their childhood? Did they have dolls or only hoods?

Society established the family as the fundamental of all social institutions. The family consists normally of one father, one mother and children. Sometimes a parent dies and there is, after a decent interval, another parent. Unless parents are decent, what can they expect of children? Perhaps Walter Winchell epitomized the force of the era when he wrote, in relation to this case: "It must be a terrible thing to force a man and a woman to live together, who can't enjoy each other." This is a characteristic point of view and represents a period in American social relationships.

But what about the children of such a marriage? Are they to be sacrificed to the parent's inability to enjoy each other? Are they to be destroyed? In countries where harems exist or where concubines flourish under one roof, children are reared in an atmosphere of intrigue and hatred and jealousy. I have known the intimacies of such homes and speak not by hearsay. Children can grow like weeds in such an atmosphere. Parents can destroy children without killing them. Parents can distort the minds of children by their misconduct and by vicious examples.

Just as Sputnik I shocked this country, even slightly, out of its complacency and forced us to review our ideas about education, so the case of Cheryl Crane, Lana Turner's daughter, must stir this nation to think seriously of marriage and children and home. In the upbuilding stage, nations are generally puritanical; when looseness of living is permissible, the down-going stage of history is evident.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Underneath the Boardwalk at a Gulf-side resort, a dice game was raging. A newcomer joined the group, and awaited his turn to "shoot." When it came, he parked a soiled ten-spot on the blanket, was promptly covered, uttered a few supplications to Lady Luck, and rolled the bones. Unfortunately, a third die rolled out of his sleeve, and joined the pair which already registered a 5 and a 2. The third die stopped at 6. There was a moment of tense silence as the boss of the game quickly reached out and slipped the third die into his pocket. Then he handed the original two to the shooter. "Go ahead and shoot, boy," he said, rolling up his sleeve. "Your point is thirteen."

Poem composed on a starlit night by Romanist Joe Duffy: Little Willie, shameless brat, Broke an egg in daddy's hat. Then he laughed in fiendish glee When Papa cried, "The yoke's on me."

Jim Riley Says:

Pocono Sets Monday Date

Pocono Township will conduct its portion of the "house-to-house" Cancer Crusade on Monday, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Most of Monday's portion of the drive on Tuesday night, but Pocono has decided on next Monday.

Teen-agers are making their mark in this drive. Working especially hard are Dona Sandt, Bill Beseker, Dave Brong, Allen Raish, Judy Singer, Fred Nidlund, Jr., and Ronnie Martineil.

Caryl Nidlund is directing the Pocono Township portion of the drive.

Mrs. Della Bixby celebrated a special birthday on Wednesday this week.

Although she isn't admitting to any exact age, Mrs. Bixby was born on the morning that Abraham Lincoln died. This should make her 93.

Belated congratulations are certainly in order.

Mrs. Bixby is the mother of Mrs. Robert Irwin, Bushkill, where she makes her home.

Central Labor Union's girl shuffleboard club will spend today in New York.

The outing includes attendance at the Gary Moore television show.

Susan Heiney, 18 Gilbert St., East Stroudsburg, went fishing on the opening day of trout season and landed a 12-inch sucker by herself.

Susan, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Heiney, made her catch in the Broadheads Creek, at the interborough bridge.

Susan's fishing partner was Charles Johnson, 26 Gilbert St., East Stroudsburg.

Mrs. Ted Price, 910 Main St., is at home again.

Kay is currently recuperating from surgery performed recently at Philadelphia Graduate Hospital.

Good Evening Ladies!

Don't Look Up Old Loves

By Ken Duvall That little piece of a few weeks ago about the futility of going back to beloved old places brought a sheaf of letters in the scented mail, most of them a greening. But one lady wishes I had added something about the imprudence of looking up old loves.

Old friends are one thing, old loves are something else. I like hearing from and meeting old friends, but I let old loves lie, like sleeping dogs. If I hear that an old love has come to town, I catch the first bus out, until I know she is gone. Not that I fear the rekindling of any dead ashes and the resultant complications thereof. I just don't want to see what time has done and I prefer a few cockeyed memories to grim reality in the field of love.

Men who get married in middle life to young girls, and old men who do the same thing, have one advantage. By the time the years have taken their toll, the former won't be caring much and the latter probably won't live to see it.

I was reminded of this some time ago, before I made my firm resolve to avoid old loves, when I went to a party at which I was to see the girl of my high school dreams. Quite a bit of water has gone over the dam since then, but she was still vivid in my memory — a beautiful little thing with golden hair and the largest blue eyes in the world. Her voice was low like the bottom notes of a flute and her lips, always innocent of rouge, were the hue of ripe cherries.

A Phantom Of Delight

I remembered the softness of her hand in mine, the scent of toilet water and starch that clung to her like an aura that made my senses reel when I was enveloped by it; the funny little way she tilted her head when she laughed away down in her lovely throat. She was so gentle and sweet, so pure. I regarded her as an angel. (Good heavens, wait until that certain party sees this!)

I remembered, too, the night under the stars when she told me it was all over between us because her father regarded me as a swaggering, pool-playing, beer-swilling swashbucclar with no ambition beyond laying words end-to-end on paper for a living.

Now, I was to see her again on this enchanted evening across a crowded room, no stranger but the girl of my innermost sacred dreams, and my heart was pounding.

Someone said she was approaching and I closed my eyes to prolong the delicious agony of waiting a few seconds longer... waiting for the touch of that silken hand I remembered so well, the low flute notes of her voice.

Suddenly, I was smitten in the pit of the stomach by a fist and my ears were assaulted by the frazzled whisky voice of a female bartender. "Hello, big boy—long time no see," she boomed. I opened my eyes.

Bol-n-nnn! Well, as the evening wore on I somehow got the feeling that seeing me didn't do anything for her, either. But, except that I now have to shave, I can't see that I've changed much.

Behind The Scenes

In Hollywood

by Harrison Carroll

Hollywood — Situation between June Havoc and husband Bill Spier is puzzling their friends.

Supposedly, they have been separated for months. Yet, since June's recent return to Hollywood, they both have been living in her apartment house at the beach.

When I called her to ask if it was a reconciliation, she was evasive.

"I never have admitted that there was a rift," she declared. "I just don't want to discuss my private life."

She is leaving soon for the east, and will be spending three months acting in the Shatford, Conn., Shakespearean festival.

I asked her if Spier will be visiting her.

"I don't know what his plans are," she answered.

Had a short conversation with a sleepy Jayne Mansfield, who had driven all night to get home from Las Vegas.

Jayne said she is pleased with her part in the forthcoming western, "Sheriff of Fractured Jaw," which, screwily

Six Early Season Forest Fires Felt In District

A DEPARTMENT of Forests and Waters official yesterday urged everyone—particularly fishermen—to exercise extreme precautionary measures with cigarettes, pipes and matches while in area forests.

District Forester Eugene F. McNamara issued the plea in an aftermath of six forest fires in the district this far this year—one of which ruined some 35-40 acres yesterday.

The blaze, he said, was extinguished by joint efforts of the Department's warden staff and crews and the Tannersville Fire Company. It was located in the Melsertown area.

Investigation

Cause of the fire, he continued, was not immediately determined. Further investigation was expected to continue today.

Tuesday similar flames destroyed approximately 20 acres of forest in the Lake Monroe vicinity. This fire, McNamara said, was believed to have originated from an accidentally dropped incendiary.

A fisherman, he theorized, may have discarded a not-quite-out match, cigarette, or pipe ashes.

Surprisingly, he pointed out, the area forests and woods are quite dry, even though it has been such a short time since most of the woodland shook off its winter blanket of snow.

The winds, sunny and mild weather, and other factors have hastened the drying process, McNamara said.

Weather predictions, he concluded, call for a few more days of such weather and temperatures before any type of storm. This will increase the hazard, he emphasized, and call for all-out precaution.

Record Wins Supply Bid

POCONO RECORD, Inc., was low bidder for election supplies to be used by Monroe County in the May 20 primary.

Commissioners yesterday awarded the contract to Pocono Record on a low bid of $1,597.

The only other bid came from Sun Printery in East Stroudsburg. Sun's bid was for $1,618.

Rails Pace Stock Market In Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails mounted an unusually strong rally yesterday and paced the stock market to a sizable advance in active trading.

Seven of the 15 most active stocks were rails. They gained from 1 to around 2 points.

The quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange advanced an estimated $1,400,000 based on the hike in The Associated Press average.

Volume leaped to 2,500,000 shares compared with 2,240,000 Wednesday and came close to Tuesday's 2,590,000-share turnover which was the biggest in a month.

Averages

The AP 60-stock averages rose $1.10 to $162.60 with the industrials up 40 cents, the rails up $3.30 and the utilities up 20 cents to still another high for the year.

Of 1,147 issues traded advances outnumbered declines by 594 to 309. New highs for the year totaled 69 and new lows 20.

Drugs, farm and road building equipments, oils, steels, motors, and most chemicals also did well. All 15 of the most active stocks advanced.

Baltimore & Ohio was one of the most active, up 1½ at 26½, and Case Co., was up 1 at 16½.

Other market leaders among the rails were New York Central up ¾, Allegheny Corp. (holding company for New York Central), up ¾ and Pennsylvania Railroad up ¾.

Among other gainers were International Nickel 1, American Telephone ¾ and Texas Co. ¾. Kennecott dropped ¾, Allied Chemical ¼ and Westinghouse Electric ¼.

American Stock Exchange prices rose on volume of 720,000 shares. Corporate Bonds rose, aided by brisk buying of rail issues and U.S. Government Bonds continued upward.

This was the announcement yesterday by George T. Bell, executive vice-president of Hospital Service Association of Northeastern Pennsylvania, Blue Cross Plan serving 13 northeast counties in the State.

Further Comment

The announcement followed closely at the heels of a news release out of Harrisburg from State Insurance Commissioner Francis R. Smith approving some rate increases for other Blue Cross Plans at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Harrisburg.

In further comment on the statement of no foreseen hike in Blue Cross for the northeastern counties, Bell added that: "This is perhaps one of the most dynamic announcements we've ever been privileged to make."

Stroudsburg Host To Northeast District Band Concert

TIME TO UNLOAD — District Band members began arriving from far-distant points Wednesday night. First arrivals were from Mahanoy Joint High School, Dalmatia. Greeted by Numa Snyder, district PMEA president and John Pyle, host director, the students were ushered to private homes in which they are guests. Here Snyder, center, unloads suitcases belonging to Stephen Ziegler and Richard Rowe as Sandra Troutman, left, partly hidden, and Mahanoy Joint teacher James H. Deyak look on.

THE MAN WITH THE BEAT — Dr. David McNaughton, Indiana State Teachers College, won students over instantly with his easygoing, friendly, yet forceful conducting manner. As rehearsal progressed, rough passages disappeared, almost like magic. Here McNaughton puts the band through a passage from "Beguine" for third time.

DISTAFF THIRD CORNETIST is Alicemarie Ford of Lackawanna Trail Joint High School, Factoryville. Inside audition room, Alicemarie ran through test music prescribed; criticized herself harshly when it was over. Assigned to listen to her were Robert Coombs, instructor at Chestnut-hill Township High School and Bill Alford, Athens High School. Like most auditors, they did not relish the job; felt increasingly compassionate as nervous students did their best, stumbled over some tough passages.

GETTING SETTLED — Both Stephen and Richard are guests at the A. A. Ifft home. Here Jerry Ifft, also a member of district band from Stroud Union, takes time out to talk over the day ahead with his two guests. Both Jerry and Stephen are oboists; had something in common to start conversation off on even keel.

HOW SOON THE BASSOON? — One of most unusual features of band will be its bassoon section. Here members Joyce Yedger, Sunbury; David Fry, Shamokin; Janice Logan, Milton and Jane McCarten, Montrose run through difficult passage during rehearsal of full band. Shortly after this half of band left for auditions to determine which player in each section would occupy "first chair."

WHEN NORTHEASTERN DISTRICT BAND strikes up the opening phrases of our National Anthem Saturday night in its concert, an exhausting three days of registration, audition and rehearsal will have gone into the finished product. The photographs on this page detail a few of the events which have gone into that concert — the arrival of students, their first rehearsals, the nervousness of audition time, the polishing of small sections in each number. There will be 185 students in the District Band. This page is dedicated to them, to their schools, their instrumental music directors and to the staff of Stroud Union High School in Stroudsburg who are responsible for setting the program up and putting it through in proper, if occasionally hectic, order.

OBOE SECTION sprinted through early phases of first rehearsal in fine shape. Here Steve Ziegler keeps his eye on sheet music momentarily as guest conductor Dr. David McNaughton (back to camera) leads band through "Beguine For Band." Steve and other students put in hard day in rehearsals yesterday; return to the grind this morning.

SWEATING IT OUT — In hallway outside audition room, instrumentalists had time to talk over weak points in their own playing; make bets on who would get honorary first chair. Most of the students take this with great seriousness just as they take pride in their music, their conductors and their schools.

IT ISN'T ALL ROUTINE — In between audition and rehearsal times, students took time out for a little boogie-woogie or blues at piano shoved into corner of Stroud Union gymnasium. Here Ray Nutaitis, Hanover Township, rattles through a number as other pop music enthusiasts look on admiringly. A minute later, another pianist took over and the mournful, jazz-filled chords of "St. Louis Blues" moaned through the gym.

READY TO RIDE — By mid-afternoon the show was almost "on the road." Dr. McNaughton had band brushed up to point where it could ride through complete number with only minor corrections. Students who had never played together before were beginning to sound like old-time band colleagues. Today, the rehearsals go on. And by tomorrow night at 8 the District Band will be a single unit, a tightly-knit organization, playing music — a language all men in any nation would understand and love.

Business Column Development Of Paint Explained

LOCAL painters, architects and contractors were briefed on the latest developments in paint products at a meeting and dinner held at the Penn-Stroud Hotel Wednesday night.

The session was sponsored jointly by Pocono Paint - Up Center, area distributor for Gleem and Wall-Fix paints and the manufacturer of these products, the Baltimore Paint and Color Works, Inc., of Baltimore, Md.

Guests were welcomed by Aaron Rolnick, president of Pocono Paint and Jack Granger, regional representative for Baltimore Paint.

The company pioneered many advances in paint chemistry and technology, including the introduction of the first truly "odorless" paint in the 1930's and the first really trouble-free vinyl-based paint, Miracle Plastic, several years ago.

In addition to its contributions in the field of paint-making, Baltimore Paint has long played a key role in developing approaches to paint-selling, employing unprecedented advertising and merchandising techniques to bring the benefits of their products to an ever-widening public.

Featured speaker was Arthur E. White, Baltimore Paint's technical service manager.

A leading specialist in the practical problems of both the formulation and the application of paint, White has addressed hundreds of paint sales groups and painter and decorator associations the country over.

A color motion picture showing the research and manufacturing processes employed by Baltimore Paint. It traced one of the company's most ultra-modern products, Gleem Miracle Plastic vinyl-based paint, from production to its varied uses in homes, offices, hospitals.

White then conducted a demonstration of the vinyl plastic product's distinctive qualities, showing how effortlessly the paint is applied and how quickly it dries to a tough and completely washable finish.

Describing paint industry trends, White stated that the industry has become a complex chemical business, relying upon continuing advanced research and modern production facilities to give the public dramatic new products.

A veteran of the United States Navy, Barry served in the Mediterranean Sea area.

JESSE D. PIERSON, manager of Sears, Roebuck & Co., yesterday announced that his firm will receive national recognition in a special issue of the American Home Magazine.

The article will be devoted to the subject of home improvement and will feature the Home Improvement Council's second big contest for homeowners.

First prize in the contest — which starts July 1 — is $25,000.

Sears will be included in a nationwide listing of HIC members, who are the source of home improvement advice and contest information.

Entry blanks for the new "Better Your Home" contest, requiring completion of an actual home improvement project with the aid of a local Council member, will be available July 1 from HIC members only.

EAST STROUDSBURG High has the fifth lowest enrollment of schools participating in the Lehigh-Northampton League. According to statistics released by the P.A. Thiele, official news organ of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, Eastburg has 322 students enrolled at the North Courtland St. institution.

The lowest enrollment in the L-N is owned by Coplay with 152 students. Second low is Fountain Hill with 354, followed by Hellertown, 386, and Pen Argyl, 446. Wilson High has the highest number with 976 students, trailed by Parkland with 823, and Nazareth, 712.

Top in the eight-team Lehigh Valley League is Emmaus with 907. Stroudsburg is fourth highest with 602 students. Sandwiched in between are Northampton with 881 and Lehigh with 656.

The lowest enrollment in the LV belongs to Catasauqua with 388 students. After Caty comes Slatington with 511, Whitehall with 571 and Palmerston 584.

Apparently there is more balance in the Lehigh Valley with regard to enrollment. The totals, ranging from 388 to 907, verify this.

The wide gap in the Lehigh-Northampton favors the big ones—Wilson, Nazareth and Parkland.

It has been proposed that the two leagues join and an equal distribution of schools by enrollment be reached.

If this "new" setup ever goes through then the lineup will have one division sporting Wilson, Emmaus, Northampton, Parkland, Nazareth, Lehigh, Stroudsburg and Palmerston.

The other loop would boast Whitehall, Bangor, East Stroudsburg, Slatington, Pen Argyl, Catasauqua, Hellertown, Fountain Hill and Coplay.

For the sake of just equalizing it doesn't seem the above "alignments" would serve any greater purpose than the present Lehigh-Northampton and Lehigh Valley lineups.

We still like the idea whereby the site of each school be the determining factor for a league. The main force behind such a procedure, naturally, would be rivalries that have been built up not only in sports but in other phases of life along the years.

East Stroudsburg should play Stroudsburg two out of three basketball games and the same in baseball. Bangor and Pen Argyl, and Wilson and Nazareth likewise.

In football it would not be remiss if the local schoolboys played twice a year. The rivalry is there and financially there certainly would be no deficit from such a venture.

Some day, no doubt after we have passed on, a method will be devised to equalize leagues on the basis of rivalry and enrollment. The result will bring keener competition and enriched treasure coffers.

Ted Rudnovitch, the smooth lefthander who hurled some fine games for Georger Ockershausen at East Stroudsburg State Teachers isn't letting his ineligible diamond status keep him idle.

Ted, who was declared ineligible for signing a professional ball contract quite a few years ago, is aiding Ockershausen in coaching the Warriors nine.

His experience, Ockershausen said, will go a long way in helping the younger members of the ESSTC team.

WHO'S ON FIRST—West Chester, a member of the Pennsylvania Teachers Athletic Conference, has joined the newly formed Middle Atlantic Conference Football League.

The Rams are in the loop's Southern Division which is composed of Franklin & Marshall, Haverford, Johns Hopkins, Swarthmore, Ursinus, Western Maryland and Pennsylvania Military Academy.

They must play five games with teams in the entire league which has Lafayette and Lehigh and six others in the university group, and Scranton, Moravian and Wilkes and five others in the Northern Division.

What happens to their Teachers Conference standing remains to be seen. Also West Chester will be playing NCAA rules and the teachers recently adopted the NAIA regulations. On some rulings the NCAA and NAIA are far apart.

Vernon's Pinch Double Gives Tribe 3-2 Triumph

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mickey Vernon slammed a pinch double to right center with two on in the ninth inning Thursday, driving in two runs to give Cleveland a 3-2 victory over Kansas City's Athletics.

Vernon batted for Jim "Mudcat" Grant, the 23-year-old right-hander who went the route with an eight-hitter in his major league debut. It was the Indians' first victory of 1958 after a pair of losses to the A's.

Until Vernon's hit it looked as if the big bat of Kansas City's Bob Cerv was going to be the deciding factor in a good pitching duel between Grant and Duke Maas.

Cerv, who drove in both Kansas City runs with a single and a sixth inning home run, now has 2 homers, 3 doubles and 2 singles for 9 RBI in the first three games.

Roger Maris opened the Cleveland ninth with a single but was forced at second by Russ Nixon. Larry Doby then struck out pinch hitting for Avila. Preston Ward followed with a single to center and Vernon finished it.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

For Friday, April 18, 1958
March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—A day with some quins, perhaps, but on the whole responsive to management and management and management efforts throughout. Don't go to extremes but be busy.
April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Similar to Aries but more emphasis on the artistic side here now. We can all make a day better or worse according to how we think. We have to don't put us in a hurry; go straight ahead.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—A tightening of all emotions urged but generous leeway for bright ideas and worthy actions with which you are familiar. We can always accomplish more when we have to work harder and remain calm.
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your best judgment can do a lot in the right places and on the important tasks. No day to waste time on non-essentials. Colorful things.
July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Soft on down emotions, take time to study that which is before you and how best to manage schedule. Maybe some matters that seem inconsequential should be examined for their importance.
August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Good period for clearing debt, bench, household to enjoy and enter into social and religious activities that truly benefit. Don't spend all your time with family affairs; help requires division.
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Can profit heading advice to manage. Intricate tendencies, business or work matters that require keen discernment and look-ahead judgment can be benefited by your able talents.
October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Strong determination, guided by fair judgment and true charity of feeling, will help you to solve problems and aid others in tight situations. An amenable day but needs clever handling.
November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Some days are easier to manage, or seem so. Often we are more alert and willing to work more satisfactorily for achievement on this sort of day. Where there's a will, there's always a way.
December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—You have a heap of talent and unusual ability to put into this and other days. And, remember, intelligence and security (you have both) are big aids. Put them to work now.
January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Greatly up to you, the extent you have and the knack you have to manage big and small tasks or problems. Fall in line where you should, but don't let any small thing where you should.
February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—May be a day for more definite decisions. Clear, straight thinking and a "rolling calmly" attitude are urgent. You are equal to it. Don't permit anxiety; it hampers action.
YOU BORN TODAY: Farseeing, courageous, at times tend to rashness, irritability. Your many strong characteristics can be turned to great usefulness. Without sensible control they can become hampering obstacles. An alert mentality and ability to do many things well and readily. Can succeed in a profession, a scientific field where knowledge of machinery and engineering and automation are needed. You can do well as teacher, lawyer, business executive, much you can achieve! Birthdate of (Flavius) Gratian, Roman emperor.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY

Thumbs Up!

WHEN asked what he thought was the average bowler's major fault, Buzz Fazio had this to say: "Over-turning the ball."

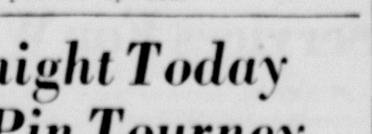

Most hook bowlers, he said, are too anxious to slam that head pin. They don't allow sufficiently for the right-to-left break of the ball.

"Control is a combination of footwork, arm swing and thumb position at ball release," continues Fazio. "First, you've got to hold a straight line with your feet if your arm is going to hold the swinging groove. Your finish at the foul line has to be identical every time."

How to finish perfect? Be sure that your starting spot, your stance, is exactly the same that your body and feet are properly set.

Stand correctly, concentrate on having the same amount of ball push-away, and half the battle is over. Next, swing the ball back close to the body. This is important; only in that way will the arm swing forward just slightly to the right. And with that swing finished smoothly and with a reach, the arm comes up at release to permit the fingers to apply hook spin—with direction and power, and (see sketch) with the thumb pointed upward.
